Warlord Games Resin Kits

Thanks for purchasing this Warlord Games kit.

The resin parts are best briefly washed in warm water with a dab of washing up liquid to remove any oily remains of the release agent that resin kits need to come smoothly out of the mould.

The kit should be assembled using superglue, but please do a 'dry run' to check the fit before adding the glue. This is because when manufacturing finely cast resin kits we use some quite advanced techniques in what is in effect an artisan style business. For example, the moulds are hand cut by eye and the resin is poured by a specialist by hand before being placed in a vacuum chamber that removes air bubbles.

The mould is then stripped by hand and the feeder sprues cut off. This will mean that your model may need just a little cleaning up before assembly. This is easily achieved with a good quality craft knife and or a file. Occasionally a rogue air bubble will remain in the resin but is easily filled with modelling putty or superglue.

Very rarely there may be some warping in thinner pieces such as tracks. They can be straightened easily enough by immersing the piece in hot water for a minute and then bending it gently back to shape.

Warlord Games have developed their own resin material to have a plasticity that makes it far less likely to break than other resins.

THIS IS NOT A TOY.

Not suitable for children under 15 years of age.

Warning: resin dust can be harmful if inhaled. Always wear a dust mask if sanding or sawing resin parts.
