ARMIES OF THE COMMONWEALTH - FAQs

I have a question about the Canadian Special Rules. When reduced to 3 men or less, standard infantry and artillery gain Stubborn and if the unit already has Stubborn they gain Fanatic. Fanatic is lost when the unit is reduced to one man. Will Canadian units that lose Fanatic due to being reduced to a last man also no longer be Stubborn?

When they lose Fanatic, they revert to Stubborn, so the last Canadian man standing is Stubborn.

In the Armies of GB, pg 32, the Commando Lieutenant rules states... that follows the rules of a Platoon Commander, except that his morale bonus is just +1.... Does this mean that the "Come on, Lads!" army rule does or does not apply?

Yes, it does apply.

I found a picture of a Valentine tank fitted with a bulldozer blade, and I know that Shermans were also converted like that, can I field that in my Commonwealth force?

Sure, for British Valentines, Shermans, Centaurs and any other tank you find historical evidence for, you may add a dozer blade. If the vehicle has a hull-mounted forward-facing MMG, this is replaced by the dozer blade at no cost. If the vehicle does not have a hull-mounted forward-facing MMG to be replaced, then you can add a dozer blade for +10pts. The dozer blade confers the following special rule:

- Bulldozer Blades: Tanks with dozer blades can clear an adjacent obstacle (e.g. tank traps, beach obstacles, barbed wire, minefields, and bocage hedgerow) by receiving a Down order. The gap in the obstacle becomes rough ground. A Down order may also be used to fill in an anti-tank ditch. Tanks equipped with Bulldozer Blades can assault buildings even though they are not heavy tanks. When rolling against a building during an assault, treat this vehicle as a super-heavy tank (i.e. Damage Value and front armour 11).

Can I really upgrade a New Zealand Home Guard unit to Maori? They cannot normally be taken as inexperienced. The same goes for Corps of Military Police, can I upgrade them to Gurkha?

Yes, you can, those are the only cases in the book of Inexperienced Maori/Gurkha troops. Basically, if the only option is Inexperienced, the unit can still be upgraded to Maori/Gurkha.

Can you please clarify which units in this book can take Welbikes?

Any unit that takes the Canadian Airborne option or any nation taking the 'Airborne Section' Commonwealth common unit.

Which nation can use the Blacker Bombard, which is listed in the Standard Commonwealth Units? Same question about the M24 Chaffee?

None, they have been included by mistake.

If a turreted Canadian vehicle already has one or more pintle-mounted MMGs, or the option to take them, but doesn't have an option for a pintle mounted HMG, does it get the Browning HMG option? The wording suggests no, because it says "upgrade this MMG".

Yes, they may upgrade the pintle-mounted MMGs they get normally in their entries, as well as the additional ones they get from the Browning special rule.
